Camp Open Arms

While summer means fun for most kids, that's not often the case for kids with cancer. Gilda's Club Camp Open Arms provides once-in-a-lifetime experiences for children with cancer and their siblings, so they can grow, learn, build friendships, improve self-esteem and most importantly... have FUN just being kids in a medically sound and recreational environment.

The two-week camp experience includes one of the following day-trips, recreational or social activities.

More than 120 campers and 80 volunteer counselors take part in Camp Open Arms annually. Families are often challenged by the enormous costs of cancer treatment; Camp Open Arms enables parents to provide their children with a valued childhood camp experience without the financial burden. Camp includes free meals and snacks, field trip tickets, and bus transportation for all campers.

Your support helps enforce our basic belief that no one, especially children, should have to face cancer alone.
